

MEMBS Education Department is a unique tutorial service representing one of the five MEMBS communication platforms..

The principle aims of MEMBS Education Department is to be the main open educational source for the Molecular Biology sciences by providing an easy access platform where students can get the knowledge on regular basis in 3 different ways:

- 1-Daily online webinars that are available for both (live) and (offline) interaction, to be organized & given by professional biologists in the region and all over the world..
- 2-Monthly local scientific events: training workshops, meetings and conferences, to be organized by MEMBS in collaboration with the main organizations and companies in the Arab countries.
- 3-Downloadable scientific material (articles and presentations) selected by our team..

MEMBS Education Department is uniquely designed to be an additive modern tutorial tool and an interactive platform for interaction and knowledge..

Webinars Features:

- Easy to participate and download.
- Time and Place-flexible.
- Titles cover the latest trends and updates of Molecular Biology sciences.

If you are an individual, and organization or a company which is working or interested in the molecular biology field, you can become part of this department through submitting to MEMBS website as a participant, speaker or an organizer in order to share and upload your scientific material and innovations in details..
